Winter means cuddling up with a glass of wine. But who says you have to enjoy that wine at home? See why the opening of this new wine bar can fearlessly bring you out in the cold this winter.

Victor Abler and Darrick Beekman love wine. Recently, they decided to turn that passion for wine into a profession.

Beekman, who is now general manager of the new Unwind Wine Bar and Light Fare, says he and Abler wanted to bring Cincinnati their vision of a wine bar truly dedicated to wine.

Visits to Napa and Sonoma, and touring various wineries and wine bars there, inspired them to open a vino mecca in the area.

Unwind Wine Bar and Light Fare, tentatively scheduled to open December 8, 2012, will be located in Hyde Park, off of Hyde Park Square between Erie Ave. and Observatory Ave.

"Hyde Park and wine seemed to go hand in hand," Beekman says. "The space we chose on Michigan Ave. also has a beautiful outdoor courtyard patio that we felt was perfect for our wine bar vision."

Part of the vision is to offer food options that bring out the best in their wines. "Unwind Wine Bar and Light Fare will offer wines from all over the world," explains Beekman, "with appetizers to pair in a rustic upscale bar without the upscale attitude."

Want to ring in the new year in style? Say cheers to 2013 at the New Year's Eve event that Unwind Wine Bar and Light Fare is planning. Details about events - as well as updates on construction and staff - will be posted here to their Facebook Fanpage.
